Heavy Demand for Union Pacific. United States Steel and Reading.

New York, Sept. 16 .- There was a renewed outburst of speculative demand for stocks today and a striking demonstration of strength was the consequence. The movement again converged on the recent favorites, U. St. Steel, Union Pacific and Reading. In the last named stock a process of digestion of profits was discernible which acted as a restraint on its price movement in spite of the enormous dealings in it. The individual transactions in United States Steel were scarcely less striking, and the aggregate dealings even larger than in Reading. When it is considered how large a number of the outstanding shares of Reading are held by corporations for division of its control and are available for the open market, the proportion of the total market supply of the stock turned over in the course of as active a day's specconsequence. The movement again the course of as active a day's spec-ulation as today's indicates the arti-ficial character of much of this ap-

In United States Steel the absorp-In United States Steel the absorption was aggressive and determined at all levels. Advices from the iron and steel trade were of brilliant prospects and an active demand, the placing of orders extending forward additional periods into next year. The healthy vitality of the steel trade is of direct benefit on a large number of stocks and its importance as a barometer of the general trade conditions is stocks and its importance as a barometer of the general trade conditions is regarded as even more important. The determined strength of United States Steel, therefore, radiated a strengthening influence all through the list. Even the copper stocks got some benefit, although authorities in that trade continue to report large accumulations of stocks in European hands and pressure to sell refliged copper by former speculative buyers in this country.

There was further talk of a widereaching agreement among the chief banking interests which was said to obviate dangers of antagonism and to banking interests which was said to obviate dangers of antagonism and to assure harmony and actual co-operation among the most powerful groups of financiers, whose interests have clashed at times in the past.

Union Pacific loomed into marked prominence again following publication of the brief and simple provisions of Mr. Harriman's will.

The banks continue to lose cash and the fact that the sub-treasury alone has absorbed almost twice as much as the actual surplus reserve of the banks as shown by the last bank statement caused no apparent hesitation in the large speculative commitments going on in the stock market. Foreign discounts continued to harden. The broad intimation from Berlin of an early advance in the official discount rate of the Imperial Bank of Germany was looked upon as reflecting the prewas looked upon as reflecting the prevailing trend of money markets.
